the general

OPENED IN JULY OF 1999, "THE GENERAL" HAS BEEN RANKED 5TH IN THE STATE OF GEORGIA AMONG PUBLIC AND RESORT COURSES BY GOLFWEEK (2007) AND WAS DEEMED "EXTRAORDINARY" BY THE ZAGAT SURVEY OF AMERICA'S TOP GOLF COURSES (2007/2008).

Conceived by renowned course architect Jim Fazio, "The General" was designed to blend into its natural surroundings, following the same principles held by Andrew Jackson Downing, the 19th century landscape architect who believed that man-made elements should appear as if they fit into the natural order of the landscape. In keeping with Downing's philosophy, Fazio supervised the moving of only one quarter of the earth typically sculpted at new courses. From the more than 1,000 acres available, Fazio personally selected the 378 acres that the course occupies.
